

Financial Technology Vendor Services

Application & System Integration Testing

FinTech companies conduct extensive Application and System Integration testing. Depending on the scope of your App you may need user testers (consumers) willing to share proprietary data such as employer and payroll information and conduct a demo user flow integration test.

Ongoing Integration Testing

Developing a financial Application requiring ongoing integration testing at multiple financial institutions in the US and Canada? We offer people who are willing to open bank or credit union accounts and present you the online access credentials which you need to test your integrations.

We are the source of FinTech Testing

- Scope the requirements for ongoing development
- Provide data flow testing with real user accounts in North America
- Open consumer or small banking accounts for long-term testing

We do the recruiting specific to your FinTech project.

We will broaden the scope of proprietary tester accounts ensuring your Application works seamlessly within different financial institutions, or payroll providers, client companies, and device types.

Hear directly from your our testers and your customers regarding their unvarnished opinion of your service, offerings, and technological readiness.
